HORTON'S TESTIMONY SENSATIONAL

Tells of the Midnight Meetings Previous to the Lynching

OF THE HUMPHRIES.

He Says the Meetings Were Held in Secluded Spots, Where Three Kinds of Suggestions Were Offered and Discussed.

Athens, Tex., Aug. 12.—T. J. Horton, a witness for the state, told Judge Lipscomb a story, which, although shrouded with the vague expressions in common use among the people of his neighborhood, surpassed in interest anything yet told in connection with the case.

He told of meetings held at midnight in secluded spots by men whom he alleged, were grimly determined to effect the destruction of the unfortunate old man and his sons who lived close together on the Trans-Cedar.

These meetings, he swore, were held weeks before the crime was committed and those who attended suggested various plans for its perpetration.

One was that two men unknown to the Humphries, were to rush in at night, drag them from their homes and hold them while the others shot down the captives.

Another was that some one be hired to commit a triple assassination on some dark night or whenever a favorable opportunity was presented.

The third suggestion offered was to enter their homes under pretense of searching for Patterson, and take them away to be swung from some convenient limb.

The witness said that he knew that these various plans were suggested, because he was present at one meeting and heard two of them discussed.

The other, favoring the hiring of an assassin, was mentioned to him afterward by one of the parties, whom he alleged, attended the meetings. The witness swore that when he heard the idea of rushing in and making quick work of Humphries he said, "I balk," and afterward made an effort to raise a body of men to cross the river and prevent the plotters from carrying out their plans.

Those who participated in the meetings, which were held weeks before the Humphries were lynched, were sworn to secrecy.

Mrs. W. B. Brooks testified that her husband was at home from sunset to sunrise on the night of May 23. Judge Lipscomb took the case under advisement.

Evansville Strike Ended.

Evansville, Ind., Aug. 12.—The national officers of the United Mine Workers of America and the operators of the Sunnyside mine have reached an agreement that result in the resuming of operations in that mine. The miners concede to the operators the right to employ only the number of men required to mine salable coal. The operators concede most other points demanded by the union. The point conceded by the miners has been the one point that kept them apart from the very first. The strikers met in mass meeting and endorsed the agreement.

Ray Testified Against Mrs. T.

Webb City, Mo., Aug. 12.—A preliminary examination of Ida T. for the murder of her husband, which July 30, was commenced in court. Three witnesses have been called. George Ray testified that Mrs. T. coaxed him to murder her husband. He rode Thornton's horse to the spot that he shot Thornton and the throat with a knife, after which he was paid $100 in cash, two certificates and the now famous ring from the son of the deceased. Ray is Thornton's cousin, is an invalid, and lives long.

TRIAL OF

A Souvenir of the Bord, 118 Flurry, but the Prisoner's Dramatic Demand Created Hisses for Mercier.

Paris, Aug. 12.—Colonel Jouaust, president of the courtmartial, and the other judges arrived early. They were followed by Generals Billot and Mercier in uniforms. The latter drove in an open carriage and the small crowd which had gathered by this time greeted him with the cries of "Viva l'armee" and "Viva Mercier." On alighting at the door of the Lycee General Mercier looked very anxious, but immediately assumed a smiling demeanor. He spoke words to the officers at the Lycee, laughed, but his laugh soon died and his face as he ascended the dozen steps and disappeared. Lycee took on an expression of M. Casimir-Perier arrived on foot. The crowd then came Colonel Picquart greeted with shouts of "Viva" which he smilingly acknowledged.

The opening proceeding by a sensational incident being shown by Colonel Picquart a document found in the waist coat by a penitent admitted keeping it as a souvenir of the bordereau. He calmly and without any emotion the voice. Then he listened to the reading of Dr. Ransel's Major Carriere, the president occupied about 10 minutes.

M. Dela Roche-Vernet, a member of the French embassy, was then called. He is 60 years of age with a heavy mustache and was neatly dressed. He testified regarding the transmission of the dispatch.

A scene closed with the reading of General Mercier's letter to the president of the courtmartial, which was read by the president.

Wilson, colored, was lynched here under peculiar circumstances. Last Tuesday, Wilson was discovered in a farmhouse in the Hermanville district, this county, under conditions which indicated an attempt at criminal assault. The screams of his intended victim brought assistance, however, and the negro was captured and brought here for safekeeping.

About 3 o'clock the jailer, upon entering Wilson's cell, discovered the would-be assaulter hanging to the county gallows with several bullet wounds in his neck and shoulders. The coroner's jury rendered a verdict of death by hanging and shooting by unknown parties.
The execution took place so quietly that none of the officials knew what was going on.

CORNETIST KILLED.

Leader of the Yoakum Cornet Band Meets a Mysterious Fate.

Yoakum, Tex., Aug. 12.—J. N. Fagg, the leader of the Yoakum cornet band and a manufacturer, was shot and instantly killed in the rear of the band headquarters about 8:45 Thursday night.
Fagg, who was participating with the other members of the band, left the quarters and said he would be back in a minute.

When he had gotten outside the report of a pistol was heard and upon investigation he was found dead upon the ground at the rear of the building.

Deputy Sheriff Ike Griffith of Shiner was sent for and brought a bloodhound to trail the assassin.

The dog soon caught a trail and followed it to the home of C. A. Pelzer in the eastern part of the city. Accordingly Pelzer was arrested and taken to Hallettsville.

Price of Meat to Be Advanced.

New York, Aug. 12.—The Herald says that retail meat dealers in Greater New York are preparing to advance prices from 2 to 3 cents a pound on all meats.
They contend that unless they do so many of them will be forced to the wall.
They explain that the present prices are little above the wholesale cost, so that with their rent and the fact that meat loses weight through transportation—whereby the number of pounds the retailers is to buy is greater than the number they sell—many market men in New York are conducting business at a loss.

Hale's Name on the Ticket.

Jefferson City, Mo., Aug. 15.—W. P.
Hale, the middle-of-the-road Populist who was buncoed out of a place on the congressional ballot last year, will be on the official ticket this year. His petition, containing 585 names, was accepted by Secretary of State Lesner and filed. Mr. Hale had nearly 200 more names than was necessary under the law.

Dairymen Indignant.

Peoria, Ills., Aug. 13.—The city of Peoria has a fight with the dairymen on its hands. The latter held a meeting in North Peoria and declared war on the municipality. The dairymen contend that the city ordinance compelling a registration of milk dealers and imposing a standard or test of the quality of milk is illegal.

Placed With His Fist.

Aug. 12.—At the conclusion of Wooten's speech in the Hay-case, Dr. H. W. Smith of Waco said to Mr. Wooten, say-

There are two sources of government, force and consent. Monarchies are founded upon force; republics upon consent.

The Declaration of Independence asserts that governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed, and this is the doctrine to which we have adhered for more than a century.

If the doctrine set forth in the Declaration of Independence is sound, how can we rightfully purchase sovereignty from a Spanish sovereign whose title we disputed in Cuba and whose repellious subjects we armed in the Philippines?

An individual may live a double life when only one life is known. When both lives are known he can only lead one life and that the worst. A republic cannot enter upon a colonial policy. It cannot advocate government by consent at home and government by force abroad.

The Declaration of Independence will lose its value when we proclaim the doctrine familiar in Europe, but detestable here, that governments are round in shape, about thirteen inches in diameter and fired out of cannons.

It is sufficient to say that the forcible annexation of the Philippine islands is a benevolent undertaking entered upon for the good of the Filipinos. Lincoln pointed out that this has always been the argument of kings. To use his words, "They always bestrode the necks of the people, not that they wanted to do it, but because the people were better off for being ridden."

We can guard the Filipinos from molestation while they develop a republic in the Orient. They will be our friends instead of our enemies. We can send schools to Manila instead of soldiers.

The question is, what can we do?

Nearly two months between the signing of the Declaration of Independence and the beginning of the Philippine Revolution. President and Congress gave to the Filipinos the assurance of independence. The assurance was given to the Filipinos. The assurance was given to the Filipinos. The assurance was given to the Filipinos.

If the assurance is so given to the Filipinos, the assurance is so given to the Filipinos. The assurance is so given to the Filipinos. The assurance is so given to the Filipinos.

labor of any sort, and who actual want and destitute partly and the money would have to sent out of the community on account of machinery. The above capital would build a mill that would employ about one hundred operatives.
The completion of a mill may always be hastened beyond what could be done with the ordinary income by borrowing money to complete the mill at once, and then pay back as it is paid into the treasury in installments by the stockholders. Whenever this has been done the mill company has commonly made notes which have been made secure by indorsement of the directors. For this reason it is desirable to have a set of directors whose financial responsibility is well known.

The workings of the plan are similar in every respect to the operation of a building and loan association. It is, in fact, a building association plan, where the money is put into a cotton factory, instead of into houses in the usual way.
The benefits are even greater than in the case of the ordinary building and loan associations, because permanent business is made, which continues for an indefinite period, while the building and loan associations, although giving a number of houses, make no further business with the capital they accumulate.

When the money is used as it comes in, and no money is borrowed, the plan is a slow one, but it must be considered that where the plan is adopted it is usually because there is need for an easy plan. At 50 cents per week it is always possible to get a mill in operation with one-third its spindles in twelve or eight-teen months. At the end of three years the mill may usually be in full operation. This plan has been tried a sufficient number of times to make sure it is no experiment. The only cases in which it has ever failed are those where the management has been conspicuously bad.

Such a company, organized as a savings institution, without any intention of building a factory, would be a benefi-cent institution in any little town where there is little accumulated capital. Having a fund, accumulated on the plan above described, if it is invested in a cotton factory, under proper management, the advantages of an ordinary town wishing to get a start in manufacturing are incalculable. Southern development is suffering enormously, in my estimation, on account of a prevalent idea in many places that it is dependent entirely on getting foreign capital to come south. The south is full of towns in which the subject of manufacturing is being agitated where the only idea is to get somebody from somewhere to come to the town to build a factory.

On one occasion, where a delegation visited me, I asked what could be done for the town that the committee represented. The answer was: "We can't York each in the way of capital, but we of the finest climates in the Jefferson County somebody else to
